

This was the first time I have ever designed and created in After Effects. For my design I wanted something very simplistic, but something that is pretty to look at. I really wanted to keep a chromatic look, and decided to go with pink.

Creating the motion was very challenging because I would add and change things in my Illustrator file and without knowing it would corrupt my After Effects file. I then would have to redo the whole project.

In the end I felt extremely accomplished and proud of completing something I originally had no idea how to make.
